Colgate Darden Speaks At June Graduation

Tentative plans for graduation activities have been announced by A. Pelzer Wagener, chairman of the special events committee.

Former governor Colgate W. Darden will be the commencement speaker and Dr. Ben Lacy will speak at the baccalaureate exercises. Dr. Lacy is dean of the Union Theological Seminary in Richmond.

As decided by the faculty, the activities will cover a three day period from Friday, June 7 to Sunday, June 8. Friday is Class day, at which time the Senior Luncheon will be held. Also the first June Finals dance is scheduled for that evening. Saturday is Alumni Day and, among other things, the Alumni Luncheon will take place.

Both baccalaureate and commencement exercises are to be held on Sunday, June 8. In previous years the Commencement exercises were held on Monday, but because of existing conditions the faculty decided to retain the present plan for another year.

Members of the College faculty and student body officers are co-operating in taking charge of the various events.

William And Mary Gets Additional Housing Units

Additional housing units, secured by the College through government agencies, will enable the enrollment of men students to be increased to approximately 950 next September, announced J. Wilfred Lambert, dean of students, last week. A maximum of 600 women will be enrolled, as housing facilities for women will be limited to Jefferson, Barrett, and Chandler Halls, and the sorority houses.

Women Discuss Charity, Explain Non-Observance Of Social Rules

Marilyn Woodberry reported on her committee's investigation of the consolidation of charity fund drives on campus to the final Women Students' Cooperative Government Association meeting on Monday night, May 6, in Phi Beta Kappa auditorium. An open discussion of the consolidation's merits followed.

Susie Seay, chairman of the Judicial Committee, spoke concerning the Judicial Committee's purpose and the need for more cooperation of the women students in observing judicial rules. Speakers from the floor declared that the cause of failure of the rules is that the women can not respect them.

Grube and Kilgore Meet Charlottesville Debaters

Nancy Grube and Don Kilgore, representing William and Mary's Debate team, will meet the University of Virginia at Charlottesville on Friday, May 10.

The team completed its southern circuit with no decisions made at any of the three scheduled meets. Nancy Grube and Ken Scott took the affirmative side for William and Mary in engagements at the University of South Carolina, in Columbia, the University of Florida, in Gainesville, and the University of Miami.

Tentative meets with the University of Richmond and the University of North Carolina will complete the year's program.

The team's annual banquet is scheduled for May 15, at the Travis House.

The attention of all students is directed to the paragraph entitled "Room Deposit" appearing on page 62 of the current catalog. The deposit of $25.00 referred to therein must be paid by all students, men and women alike, who wish to reserve rooms in the dormitories or sorority houses for the session of 1946-47.

By action of the Committee on Admissions the final date for the payment of this deposit has been changed from July 1 to June 1.

Students who fail to make the deposit of $25.00 before June 1, and who later wish to do so, will be treated as applicants for admission and will receive consideration only after the assignments of new students have been made.

J. Wilfred Lambert,
Chairman,
Committee on Admissions

Seven revised social rules were announced; the rules are as follows:

Saturday night dances will end at 11:45 p. m. so that women will be in their dormitories by midnight, except for formals, which will end at 12:00.

The Friday night dance of June Finals will last until 2:00 a. m. Four big dances each year will be allowed this permission.

Indian Grill may be patronized by women after supper hour.

Freshmen and sophomores are granted Camp Peary permission until 12:00 on Saturday nights.

One couple or two girls may walk in Matoaka Park. In the spring, picnics in the Park may last until 7:30 p. m.

Dating on steps of academic buildings fronting the Sunken Gardens, except Phi Beta Kappa

Pan-Hel Delegates Vote For Rushing

"Early rushing will definitely be held next year," stated Ellen Diggs, president of the Pan Hellenic Council. This verdict was delivered after the Council had tabulated the votes of each sorority as to whether or not they wished rushing to be held.

At present, the Council is revising and shortening many of the previous rules because of the limited number of girls being accepted, although neither Dr. John E. Pomfret nor J. Wilfred Lambert has made any statement concerning the exact number of women entering the College next semester. A quota system has been mentioned to equalize the number of girls each sorority may pledge, but no definite steps concerning the system have been taken.

Seven Members Tap Successors

Mortar Board will tap junior women for membership Monday night at the eighteenth annual tapping service. The senior honorary society which chooses its members for scholarship, leadership, and character, will conduct the convocation in Phi Beta Kappa Hall at 7:00 p. m.

During the service a plaque will be presented to the sophomore woman who has maintained the highest scholarship record during the preceding three semesters, an honor currently held by Helen Staples of the junior class and Dottie Hammer of the senior class.

Founded At W. & M. In 1928

Cheerleaders will conduct try-outs for the 1946-47 squad tomorrow in Jefferson gymnasium from 4:00 to 5:00 p. m. and from 7:00 to 8:00 p. m. There are several openings for men on the squad and possibly one or two for women.

Mortar Board, the national women's honorary which has chapters on more than 75 college campuses was founded at William and Mary December 8, 1928, succeeding the Alpha Club, a woman's club founded in 1918. The aims of the society are to promote college loyalty, to advance spirit of service and fellowship among university women, to maintain high standards of scholarship, to recognize and encourage leadership, and to stimulate and develop a finer type of college woman.

Band Not Contracted; Tommy Dorsey Sought

Attempts to obtain a band have been in vain according to Rux Birnie, dance committee chairman, who is still hoping to contract a first-rate band before the end of the week.

Rux has wired agents of bands now playing in this area and to date he has been notified by only one band, Tony Pastor, who is unavailable. Pat Dorsey, a former William and Mary student, and daughter of the bandleader Tommy Dorsey, has been appealed to in an attempt to contract her father. In response to student suggestion, the dance committee chairman has contacted the agent of Les Brown. Claude Thornhill is the only available band the Richmond booking agency has at the present time.

The students have been urged to respond to the offer of Woody Herman and write a letter to him telling "why you would like to have his band play for your college dance." The winner will not only receive $1,000 and a radio, but also Woody Herman's band will play at the winner's college with all expenses paid. Full particulars can be obtained from the Friday night radio program that features Woody Herman's Band.

Council, has served on the Student Assembly during his junior year. Tom was captain-elect of the varsity football team of 1945, is a member of the Varsity Club, and secretary of Omicron Delta Kappa. Mel Wright is a member of the football team and Varsity Club.

Margie Oak is a member of the women's varsity tennis team and manager of the team. She is art editor of the Colonial Echo and a cheerleader.

We Can Make It Better Than Before

"Yeah, it's pretty nice to be back in school, but the place has changed. It's not like it was in '41. I remember—" And so the returned students tell how it was in the 'good old days.' How the Saturday dances were social events, how the students really ran the campus, about the big time politics, that the football team could play better, that the I.R.C. gave the best picnics on campus, that the President's Aides wielded influence, how the students' lives revolved more around campus than on visiting week end places, of the fabulous parties in Matoaka Park, about the many different "characters" that did so many unusual things, that William and Mary had a better group of men and women.

To many of us who have had only a slight taste, or rather an ear full of what happened in the green years of this college, the beautifully painted past seems very attractive. The only trouble is that it reminds us of the story-telling our grandfathers did. Riding a horse and buggy four hours on dusty roads, when described by grandfathers, sounds attractive too. We suddenly realize that in our own experience we have glorified the past, also. In our memories we hold only the happy recollections. The unpleasant inconveniences and misfortunes are intentionally forgotten.

We are not saying that in the pre-war years William and Mary wasn't as it is described to us. There are pictures proving some of the stories. We know how elaborate the Finals were. We have seen the scorings of the '41 football team. We have looked at pictures of the fraternity houses. We know that meals were eaten in the sorority houses.

There are several other things that we know. We know that we are college students with the same potentialities the pre-war collegians had. We realize that the college is trying to shake off the effects of the lean years, and that in those lean, wartime years, the school changed. The thing that we realize the most is that saying, "Let's make this place like it was in the old days," is not good. What we actually want to hear the old and new students alike say is "Let's make this place better than it was in the old days."

We are still young and so we are still free to make the choice. Are we to live in the past, the present, or the future?

Consolidated Fund Makes Good Sense

Among the suggestions Pat Jones brought back from a recent Women's Student Government convention was a plan for a consolidated charity fund drive. Such an idea appealed to the women students and a committee was appointed to investigate the possibilities of formulating a system for our campus. The report of the committee is in and we believe it to be a favorable one. However, a few points need clarification.

The desirability of the system is obvious; one drive would encompass all the charities (with the possible exception of the Red Cross which operates on a membership basis) and therefore eliminate the almost continual soliciting that goes on throughout the year.

It should be understood, however, that the fund would be voluntary, for that is the spirit of all charities. The proposal of five dollars was made only as a guide. The average student gives that amount or more yearly to various organizations.

The donations to the various charities from the fund would be done on a proportional system, using the amounts collected in other years as a basis for the ratio. Some of the contributions would be withheld as a reserve to meet special calls such as the USO fund during the war.

One large rally would be held in the fall. At this time each charity could advertise and put across its appeal. This would be the only program for soliciting during the year. At the close of the rally pledges for any amount would be accepted, payment to be made at specified times.

The plan makes sense. To put it into action it will have to go to the Student Assembly, and the General Cooperative Committee and a budget would have to be drawn up and approved. Think it over and be prepared to back a consolidated fund.

Letters To The Editor

The following letter was received by The FLAT HAT in what is, we suppose, a nationwide contacting of college papers. We feel that the special circumstances at William and Mary make some editorial comment on the letter proper.

The students supported the Finals ticket drive in fine spirit; they proved that they were interested and that they could get up and do something. However, we didn't do it soon enough and so we have another job—that of getting the band. In Woody Herman's publicity stunt we have a good opportunity to get a good band. We certainly have enough writing talent to win the contest. And we certainly have the incentive.

Any letters, and we hope there will be many, should be turned in to The FLAT HAT—either in the office or in the FLAT HAT box in the Registrar's Office. The FLAT HAT will forward them all together to Woody Herman.

Let's Win A Band!

Dear Editor:

Since you're the one everybody looks to for keeping your College in the spotlight, I'm writing you about an idea that can be the biggest thing that ever happened to your Alma Mater.

Your College can have my entire Band, flown right out to the Campus in a 58-passenger PCA Capitoliner, to play free-of-charge for an end-of-the-semester dance or a big party for the whole College, if any one of the fellows or girls turns out to be the winner of our Win A Band Contest.

Besides, the winner will get a thousand dollars in cash plus a self-charging portable radio.

The more students you can get to enter the Win A Band Contest, the better the chances are that the grand-prize winner will be in your College.

Now's the time to get started. There's just one way to get details, and that's to get as many students as possible to tune in the "Woody Herman Show," Friday nights over your local American Broadcasting Company station.

Here's hoping that someone from your College will be the grand-prize winner.

Sincerely,

Woody Herman.

State Gyps Federal Government

To The Editor:

In the section of the current College Catalogue dealing with fees, it is stated that the tuition per semester for residents of Virginia is $80.00, while that for out-of-state students is $157.00. I wonder, however, just how many students are aware of the fact that the federal government is required to pay out-of-state tuition for all veterans, REGARDLESS OF THEIR RESIDENCE!! All this is brought about by a law passed by the Virginia Legislature to that effect and applying to state-owned or supported institutions. The difference of $77.00 multiplied by the number of veterans who are now in college, or expect sooner or later to be, comes to quite an impressive figure. Previously, the state had paid the difference, which, in reality, amounted merely to taking out of one pocket and putting into another. So, it would seem to the layman that Virginia is run by a greedy bunch who want to get all they can out of the federal government (and everybody else too, for that matter) and who, at the same time, are loath to appropriate funds for good purposes. A bit of irony is brought about by this situation, in consideration of the source of this revenue and the fact that Virginia reputedly ranks forty-seventh in public school education among the forty-eight states.

One might ask, at this point, why the individual veteran would voice any disapproval of this policy, since the United States Government is paying it and not the veterans themselves. But a reaction of righteous indignation should seem all the more sincere, since it isn't any "skin off the veteran's nose."

The individual veterans on the William and Mary campus could hardly be expected to do anything about this, but all that the federal government would have to do is to remove Virginia state-supported institutions from the list of those to which it would pay educational expenses of veterans. The government, however, "isn't interested in saving money," which is all the more reason why the gyp is to be deplored.

Monday Episode

Makes Things Clear

By LAURIE PRITCHARD

We send our deepest regret to the Judicial Committee in the apparent failure of their appeal for a vote of confidence in the WSCGA meeting Monday. We do not feel, however, that the episode constituted a real failure. For the first time in three years women students voiced their opinions uninhibitedly in a mass meeting. Such action can lead only to success; for at last in spoken words were voiced the beliefs of so many of us. Every speech was sincere and every speech expressed an important point of view.

The two general trends of thought were 1) that we should obey the social rules and thereby prove to the Administration that we are capable of doing so; then maybe changes in the social rules could be achieved; 2) if we disobey the rules en masse then the Administration will see that there is necessity for changing them. The aims of both proposals are significantly the same—CHANGE THE RULES. The methods of approach differ, neither being an ideal course of action. Undoubtedly the former is more honorable; the latter has proved to be more effective.

Diplomacy Could Help

We cite our history books. The American Revolution was brought about by the tyrannical action of the British Crown. The colonists did not believe in sending revenues to England. What they did not believe, they did not comply with. The result was that they were oppressed and finally rebelled openly. We can hardly say that a bloody conflict is closely analogous to the problem of William and Mary social rules, but there are points of comparison worth making. A few diplomatic moves, the granting of a few requests by the reigning powers would have averted the revolution at that time. We suggest that such diplomacy could be used by the Administration to create a more co-operative spirit on this campus.

Specifically, if allowing the women to stay out until 12:15 a. m. every Saturday night, thus making possible the continuance of the college dance until midnight will make us happy, what objection can there be to making such a concession? Is it that the rules must not comply with our wishes because there would be no one to admonish? This is illogical reasoning but in many cases it seems to be the aim of the Administration. If there is a logical reason for not granting this request, then we want to know what it is.

Evil Until Proven Otherwise?

We find that generally the social regulations seem to be devised on the premise that all women students are "evil until proven otherwise." We assert that if the women are of such a nature, then social rules cannot measurably change their character. We believe that most of us are high-minded and morally astute women, and such women do not need the petty rules which attempt to regulate their lives. If there are women students whose actions do not conform to good moral conduct, the social rules will not hinder their actions. And, if the rules have been devised for those who are ignorant of what is good social conduct, there is no necessity for them, for such children do not belong in a college community. They should be tied to apron strings at home or in a strict boarding school where they can have a chaperone every time they go out of the dormitory. William and Mary's women are for the most part a mature and intelligent group. We propose that Administration treat them as such.

We are agreed that there must be regulations of some sort in order to achieve a uniformity of habit. But we believe that such regulations should be those which we can believe in, those for whose existence we can see reason.

Committee In Precarious Position

The above paragraphs reconstruct much of what was said at the Monday night meeting with a few additions and subtractions. But we suggest that no matter how vehemently we feel about the social regulations we must keep in mind the position of the Judicial Committee. It is their job to fight our battles. This they have ably done, meeting in some cases with success and in others with failure. The members of the committee are in a precarious position: they must please us and not offend the Administration. If they have failed in any way to secure the changes which we want, we can be sure it is not that they are inefficient or disinterested.

It seems only logical that we must back our elected leaders to the hilt. They are students just as we are. They did not form the social regulations. Rather, they have the dubious honor of enforcing them. If we do not support them in every way possible, then we shall be fighting ourselves. Such instances as the one Susie Seay discussed Monday are a disgrace to us. We must not allow the occurrence of similar cases. The new Judicial Committee is headed by a real fighter for what we want. Each member of that committee is sincere in her efforts to achieve our aims. Can we do less than give them a strong vote of confidence?

Advocating Socialism, Mary Baker Illustrates Primers

"I just lived the typical Andy Hardy type life in high school," said Mary Baker, wrinkling up her nose as she smiled. That was high school in Zanesville, Ohio. Now it's college in Williamsburg, Va., where her friends say she's always "bounding off somewhere." Mary's been treasurer of the German Club for two years, on the Scarab Club executive council since her freshman year, a member of the YWCA cabinet for two years, in Student Assembly her junior year, and on the side she's made Phi Beta Kappa.

Mary says, "I practically live for Cricket." Cricket is her dog, half Fox Terrier and half Chihuahua, with "one ear up and one ear down—non-descript, but a darling." She likes to swim very much and as a member of Kappa Chi Kappa, Mary used to teach swimming to Girl Scouts who came up to Jefferson gym every Saturday. Right now she claims she's a Socialist. "That's because I've been reading so many books on the subject, but it probably won't last," she remarked.

Mary is a fine arts major, and her real love is drawing. According to her, her masterpiece is a painting she did of her roommate this fall. After graduation, Mary wants to illustrate for a publishing company. She did practice work this summer illustrating some primers. "It was lots of fun," she said, "—simple, and it didn't have to be too perfect!"

Around the Alpha Chi Omega house, Mary is known for her sense of humor and the way she runs downstairs. Also everyone in the house is convinced she likes Western music, especially, "The Rose of Saint Antoine." Mary has one particular grievance, "If only people would believe I'm really 21!"

I. R. C. Elects Greg Mann At Annual Matoaka Picnic

Choosing Greg Mann president, the International Relations Club held elections at its annual picnic in Matoaka Park, on Thursday, May 2. Greg heads a slate of officers including Peggy Darby, secretary-treasurer, and Scotty Murray, social chairman.

Virginia Stephens, senior, served as president of the club this year.

Freeman Delivers Memorial Tribute

Douglas Southall Freeman, editor, historian, and lecturer, will be the first postwar alumni orator of the College when he delivers a memorial tribute to John Stewart Bryan at the Alumni Day Luncheon on Saturday, June 8. At least twice previously the Society has invited a non-alumnus to deliver this traditional oration. Outside of his immediate family, probably no one was more closely associated with Mr. Bryan than was Dr. Freeman, who has edited the Richmond News Leader since 1915 and is currently writing a biography of Mr. Bryan.

Dr. Freeman, a native of Lynchburg, received the A.B. degree from Richmond College in 1904 and a Ph.D. degree from Johns Hopkins in 1908. Few men, not in public life, have acquired as many honorary degrees.

Becoming associated with the Richmond Times Dispatch in 1909, he became associate editor of the News Leader in 1913 and editor in 1915. He is a member of the board of directors of Richmond Newspapers, Inc., and vice president of Richmond Radio Corporation.

Nationally, Dr. Freeman is perhaps best known for his four-volume life of Robert E. Lee, published in 1934 and which won the Pulitzer Prize the same year. In 1942-43 he brought out a three-volume work on Lee's Lieutenants. He also authored The South to Posterity, which was published in 1939.

W-M Chapter of Legion Presents Dance May 18

At the chapter's last meeting, the nomination committee chose nominees for the post-officers of next year. Voting will take place at the next meeting on May 16.

The chapter will receive its permanent charter from state headquarters within the next 60 days.

Dr. Foltin May Return To Austria For AMG

W-M Psychologist Offered Position As Legal Adviser To General Clark

If old wounds from the First World War do not interfere, Dr. Edgar Maria Foltin, head of the psychology department and professor of jurisprudence, will return to his native Vienna this summer to serve as legal advisor to General Mark Clark, head of the American Military Government in Austria.

The result of the physical examination Dr. Foltin was required to pass in order to take the Civil Service position will be the deciding factor. The Colonel who now holds the position which Dr. Foltin has been offered has interviewed the psychologist, flying to the United States for that purpose and returning to Vienna immediately.

The job entails "26 hours of work a day," because under the present regime, Austria cannot pass a law without the approval of all four of the occupying powers. "Much of my time, therefore, would be spent in meeting with the Russian, French, and English representatives and working on every new law which Austria wants to pass," said Dr. Foltin. Calling himself "the last Foltin," he declared that he has no family remaining in Austria.

Dr. Foltin will go on leave of absence for one year from the College. "I am not going to burn my bridges (bridges) behind me," he declared in high glee at his joke. In any event, he will complete the spring, 1946, term; "be reassured; I shall make up the final examinations and give them—from A to F."

"The decision was not a very easy one," declared the energetic Austrian, seriously, "for I have everything in Williamsburg and the College of William and Mary which a man can wish for—cross my heart, hope to die, spit, and curse three times."

Pam Pauly, Jane Davison Give Report For Virginia Academy In Richmond

Pam Pauly and Jane Davison will speak on "Projective Techniques in Painting by Psychotic Patients" before the Virginia Academy of Science on Friday, May 10, in Richmond.

Jane and Pam have been working on the subject in connection with Dr. Edgar M. Foltin's research class. The entire class has filled out regular forms concerning paintings by Eastern State patients in an attempt to pick out certain symptoms of mental disease. Taking several of the cases, they have tried to see how well they agree. Jane and Pam will report on their findings.

Dr. Foltin's summer school research class began the project and the students who took the course in September continued their work. Jane and Pam began their paper about the middle of April.

Dr. Foltin and Dr. Richard C. Ledgerwood of the psychology department and Dr. Jess H. Jackson, professor of English, will also give papers at the conference. A number of students in the biology department will make the trip too.

Tribe Netters Unbeaten In 21 Straight Matches

By ED GRIFFIN

William and Mary's sensational tennis team hung up their twenty-first consecutive victory as they knocked Miami University from the ranks of the undefeated by a score of 8-1 on the Tribe courts Monday.

Gardner Larned hooked up with Mark Brown, Miami's ace, and was extended for the first time this season. Larned, somewhat off his usual excellent game, had to go two long sets, rallying in each, before he gained the decision.

Larned Wins

Brown took the first two games of the initial set, rapidly lengthened his lead to 5-3, and had Larned at set point. Gardie, however, held his serve to take the game; and, after winning the next, which went to deuce, he lost only three points in adding another pair of games to win, 7-5. In the second set he came out on top by 6-4, after trailing, 1-2.

Bren Macken, playing number two, had a relatively easy time with Jack Feltes and triumphed by 6-1 and 6-0.

Tut Triumphs

Tut Bartzen, despite his sprained ankle which had to be heavily taped, came through with a victory over Steve Adams with a loss of just one game. This was Tut's first appearance on the Redmen's home courts since the season opener with Kalamazoo. In his six wins this year the terrific little Texan has taken 72 games and lost only seven.

Bobby Doll quickly outpointed Jack Corrigan but Bob Galloway and Jim Macken had to go three sets each to come out on the long end of the score.

Tribe Duo Bows

Highlight of the afternoon was the number one doubles match in which Brown and Charles Lundgren gained a small measure of consolation for their coach, Mercer Beasley, by defeating Larned and Bartzen, 2-6, 6-1, 6-4.

The Indian duo got the jump on the Floridians as they won the first set and seemed well on the way to insuring a shutout of the visitors. The second round was even more decisive but the positions were reversed as the Hurricanes pulled even.

Tut and Gardie got the first two games in the final set before the Miami combine made their big push to hang up five in a row and push the Braves to the brink of defeat. Larned and Tut rallied, however, to gain the next two games, in one of which they were at match point. In the tenth game, after fighting off two more match points and coming within a single-point of tying the engagement at 5-all, the Indians bowed. It was the first time that either Tut or Gardie had been involved in a defeat during collegiate competition.

The remaining doubles matches were taken care of by the Mackens and the Doll-Galloway combination in straight sets.

Elaine Passow Reaches Semi-Finals In Intercollegiate Court Tournament

William and Mary's co-ed tennis squad finished their season last week end by competing in the Middle Atlantic Intercollegiate Tennis Tournament at Bryn Mawr, Pa.

Elaine Passow, William and Mary number one co-ed netter, was seeded number two as the result of her play last year. After drawing a first round bye, Elaine breezed through three rounds before being beaten by Jane Austin, University of Pennsylvania star, 3-6, 6-2, 6-2 in the semi-finals. In the second round Elaine defeated Anne Qitakuest, from Chestnut Hill; Amy Roosevelt went down before her in the next round, 6-3, 7-5, and Joan Wheeler was defeated by Elaine in the fourth round, 6-3, 12-10.

Coumbe Stars

Betty Coumbe, number two player for the William and Mary squad, went all the way to the quarter-finals and then was beaten by Austin, 7-5, 4-6, 6-2. In the first round Betty easily beat Patsy Frank, from Swarthmore, in love set. University of Pennsylvania's Martha Benedict went down before Coumbe in the second round, 7-5, 6-1, and in the third round Betty whipped Agnes Nelms from Bryn Mawr College, 6-3, 6-1.

Davis Loses

Barbara Davis didn't fare too well, drawing Jane Austin in the initial round. Davis lost in straight sets, 6-0, 6-1. Marge Oak also lost in the first round to Anne Reilly, who was seeded fourth in the tournament.

Hunt Cromwell turned in an excellent performance at the tournament, winning two rounds and getting four games from Gloria Evans, first seeded, in the third round. Evans took the match by 6-3, 6-1.

Baseballers Take Three-Day Trip

With a record of eight wins and three losses, the Indian baseball faces its toughest week of the season.

Besides a home game today with Randolph-Macon, the Redmen will start on a three-day trip through the Old Dominion to play V.P.I. at Blacksburg, Washington and Lee at Lexington, and the University of Virginia at Charlottesville.

Coach Frosty Holt has four pitchers with which to face the opponents. Jimmy Stewart, will be the main hurler for the Tribe. In his first starting role he pitched all the way for a 2-1 win over the Yellow Jackets.

Downs Cavaliers

The next time out he turned in another full nine-inning stint to defeat V.P.I. 11-1 The Generals, however, knocked him out of the box in the sixth inning of a game in which the Tribe lost, 5-4.

Bob Gill, who started the season shakily, has found himself and will probably be given one of the starting assignments. He started against Virginia, but had to be relieved, and the Indians lost by a 6-1 count. His last pitching job was against Camp Peary, and Gill went all the way for a 4-3 win.

Stan Magdziak won his first game over Little Creek last week. Bernhard, the fourth of Holt's starting hurlers, has compiled himself a record of two wins and no losses.

Chi Omega Wins Play-Off Position

Taking top honors in two games last week, Chi Omega completed an undefeated season of softball and thus won first place in League A. The Chi O team will tangle with Tri Delt in a contest for the championship tomorrow.

Chi Omega scored 17 runs to defeat Kappa Alpha Theta on Monday, April 29. Taking the lead from the Chi O's in the third inning, the Thetas picked up their six runs. With especially good fielding the Chi O's prevented them from scoring anymore for the rest of the game, while they made the remaining runs.

On the same day the Theta second team was defeated by the Tri Delt's second team by a score of 14-11. Good defensive and batting helped the Tri Delt's keep the lead throughout the game and win their first game of the season.

Theta Wins

Tuesday saw the Thetas slugging out a victory over Alpha Chi Omega. The winning team, adding constantly to the score, chalked up 20 runs and allowed its opponents to cross the plate only six times.

On the following day the Theta

The Chi Omegas clinched the championship of their league when they took a game from Pi Beta Phi on Wednesday. The score was 14-1. The only run for the Pi Phi team was made by Janet O'Donoghue when she stole from third to home. The match was called after two and a half innings account of rain.

Pi Beta Phi forfeited to Kappa Delta, as did Tri Delt (2) to Chi O (3) and K D to Theta during the past week.

Indians Blank King's Point; Swarthmore Trims Princeton Netters Bow, 8-1

William and Mary's great tennis squad stretched their winning streak to 20 straight as they blanked King's Point, 9-0, and rolled over Princeton by 8-1, making a huge success of their first Northern invasion of the season.

Despite the fact that Tut Bartzten didn't play because of his ankle injury and that Bobby Doll was sick, the Indians had very little trouble in trimming the Merchant Marine team. Every match except one was taken in straight sets and in only two of these contests did the Mariners win more than three games.

Larned Wins Easily

Gardie Larned, Tribe ace, blasted Malcolm Sheldon off the court in rapid fashion, winning by 6-0, 6-1. Bren and Jim Macken lost but three and two games, respectively, while Bob Galloway won in love sets. Bert Rance dropped his opening set to Bob Nierman but came back strong to take the next two. George Miller, playing his first singles contest of the year, won handily over Chet LaRoche, 6-2, 6-2.

Larned and Galloway teamed in the number one doubles to wax Sheldon and Nierman, 6-1, 6-1. The Mackens lost only a single game but Rance and Miller had to work hard before gaining a 6-4, 7-5 decision.

Princeton Bows

With Bartzten back in the lineup and Doll partly recovered, the Tribe next hammered out a win over Princeton, although having a little more competition than they had encountered on the day before, with several of the sets going into overtime.

Larned romped through a 6-1, 6-1, workout to open the scoring, while Bartzten lost only one game in his engagement; but the rest of the squad didn't find the going as easy. Bren Macken, after taking a 6-3 win in his initial set, became involved in a gruelling round which he finally took at 9-7. Galloway was extended to 7-5 but then made short work of his opponent in the second set. Jim Macken played another long opener, winning by 8-6, but, like Bob, took the second one rapidly. Bobby Doll, though not feeling too well, played in the number five slot and Doubles competition was a different story as the Braves breezed past the opposition with a loss of just ten games in the three encounters.

The Redmen, in racking up their nine victories of this year have posted four shutouts, three 8-1 triumphs, and a pair of 7-2 wins. This gives them a record of 74 wins and just 7 losses in individual matches. Their average score against their opponents has been 8.2-0.8.

Swarthmore Trims Squaw Team, 4-1

Bowing for the first time this season, the William and Mary coed varsity net team suffered a 4-1 defeat at the hands of Swarthmore College last week end in Philadelphia.

The lone win for the Squaws came in the number two singles when Betty Coumbe turned back Phyllis Kinhead. Coumbe played a hard-driving game to take the match in straight sets 6-2, 6-1.

Evans Downs Passow

In the number one singles tilt, Elaine Passow was on her way to victory over her Swarthmore opponent, Gloria Evans, by virtue of taking the first set 6-4. Evans then came back and captured the last two sets easily 6-2, 6-1.

Patsy Frank, Swarthmore, had a hard time downing Barbara Davis 8-6 in the opening set of the third singles. The second set was easier with Barb going down under a 6-1 count.

Doubles Defeat

Coumbe teamed up with Libby McLaughlin for the first time in the number one doubles team. They captured the first set 6-3, but lack of experience in playing together showed up as the duo dropped the next two sets 6-3, 6-2.

Misunderstanding

Passow and Davis did not play doubles because a misunderstanding arose concerning the method of play. William and Mary plays the same girls for singles and doubles, but Swarthmore goes on the policy of no repeats. Coumbe was the one member allowed to repeat because the squad had not brought a sufficient number of girls on the trip.

Evans (Swarthmore) defeated Passow (W&M) 4-6, 6-2, 6-1.

Skirts In Sports

By BETTY BORENSTEIN

About a week and a half ago, three William and Mary co-eds with their coach, Miss Caroline Sinclair, flew to Brooklyn College in New York. This unnoticed, unpublicized event renewed the college's intercollegiate fencing competition after a lapse of at least four years.

The trio, Janet Campbell, Jane Anne Hogg and Jane Seaton, entered the tournament with their eyes open. Not one of them was really more than an advanced beginner. Last year was the first time they had held a foil and learned the bare essentials of the "lost art" of fencing.

This season, under the careful, watchful tutelage of Dr. Sinclair, they improved their skill and advanced their knowledge of the sport. Then, without having had any previous competition, they entered the National Intercollegiate Fencing Tournament at Brooklyn College.

17 Bouts Won

Needless to say, the Squaws did not fare too well in the tournament. But the fact remains that they did not come in last, and they captured a total of 17 bouts against many seasoned veterans.

The team returned from the matches with a moral victory, so to speak. According to one of the girls, they learned more out of that tournament than they could ever learn from a dozen or more practices with each other.

Finis is written to the National Intercollegiate Fencing matches;

Wishing Well Expresses Theme Of Co-ed Dance

Couples Make Wishes With Pennies At German Club Sponsored Formal

Upon arriving unavoidably late at the gym Saturday night, the Camp Peary band found the dancers already there waiting for them. But the German Club dance got into full swing, and, before the end of the evening, over 300 people could be seen swirling about the floor.

The gym was decorated in a pink and white motif, with streamers running from the ceiling to the side walls and also across the ceiling. At one end of the gym was the bandstand which was surrounded with a white trellis on which were pink roses. At the other end of the floor, in front of a lattice of white crepe paper, stood a wishing well which had been covered with pink and white crepe paper. Throughout the evening couples threw pennies, nickles and dimes in the well and made wishes. By the end of the dance the wishing well held several dollars and, according to Carolyn Thomas, president of the German Club, the money will be donated to the fund for the Student Union building.

Upon entering the door each man was presented with a pink bachelor's button, thereby carrying out the theme of pink and white decorations throughout.

In the Trophy room, a white clothed table with candles held punch and tiny pink and white cakes. Around the sides of the table was a white trellis with pink roses arranged on it.

Among the pieces played by the orchestra were Symphony; Oh, What It Seemed To Be; and Doc- tor, Lawyer, and Indian Chief. During intermission a group of dancers entertained with the impromptu rendition of The Riff Song, Working On The Railroad, and other numbers.

Carolyn Thomas, president of the German Club, and "Weezy" McNabb were in charge of preparations for the dance and were assisted by Monty Woolley and Tom Mikula.

Varsity Squad Lists Four Net Matches

Hoping to add four more victories to their win column, the William and Mary co-ed tennis squad will complete its season in the coming week.

The co-ed netters will play host to the North Carolina team on May 11 and attempt to stage a repeat performance of last years triumph. Two days later the Richmond Country Club squad will invade the campus. The Richmond Club also dropped a net contest to the Williamsburg team last year. On May 15 and 18 the local netters will travel to the campuses of Ursinus in Philadelphia and Westhampton.

Despite the defeat of the past week, the team has a fairly good chance of winning these matches. It can be expected to win over the North Carolina squad and the Richmond Club, since, according to coach Martha Barksdale, the team has greatly improved since last year.

Bot - E - Talk

The rains came and the monsoons descended upon Williamsburg. Co-eds and eds slogged through the mud of the sunken gardens and Matoaka park. Romance triumphed over rain, however, and everyone was happy.

Co-eds drag Saturday nite: Stan Vautrain and Jane Seaton, Jane Oblender and Jim Sutherland, Joyce Remsberg and Billy May, Carol Achenbach and Jim Field, Pam Pauly and Doc Holloway, Ruth Ugarte and Jess Jackson, Penny Allenbaugh and Ralph Bailey, Weezy McNabb and Buddy Budro, Jean Bevans and Charlie Guther, Nancy Laughlin and Fred Kovaleskie, Ann Pennington and Herb Bateman.

Looks like it's getting permanent: Audrey Kneese and Bill Harding, Barbie Hughes and Johnny Wilson, Si Nelms and Eegie Grant, Tut Bartzon and Peggy Stevens, Jim Macken and Nancy Graves, Rollo Miller and Bobby James, Fletcher Cox and Winnie Lichty.

Solitaires and Stuff: Bobby Black, Betty Cranston, and Ruth Paul all sporting diamonds. Ruth being serenaded by the S. A. E.'s Monday night in honor of the occasion. Alice White and Ed

Lewis-newly pinned.

The question of the week? Dick Carter and Fran Moore.

Since you went away: Nancy Grube, Ann Anderson, and Ken Scott debating through Florida; Elaine Passow, Margie Oak, Betty Coumbe, Hunt Cromwell, Barbara Davis, meeting their men on the tennis trip; Shuz Sprague green-keying at Dartmouth; Phyl Shade at Lafayette.

Happy birthday: Elaine Ott, guest of honor at a picnic in Matoaka, dating Kovaleskie.

Returning to the fold: Brenda Cahill's John being transferred from Cuba to Norfolk. Lois Settle's Billy from Okinawa to Williamsburg.

First on the list to be eliminated: Frank Beale who uses the sacred FLAT HAT for a rain bonnet, and Joyce Remsberg who wouldn't tell her own staff the biggest scoop of the year.

At the Gamma Phi dance: Elsie Capplemann and Dot Grove happy with their Bob's, Peggy Walker and John O'Neill, Betty Cutshall and Dave Clark, Betty Seeley and Jim Vickers, Norma Jo Meister and Herb Bateman, and of course, Cissy and Aubrey, Betty Sue Wade, who just got pinned to a Sigma Chi, in a dual role as chaperone and keeping the stag line happy.

Were their faces red: Eager Pi Phi's returning the S. A. E.'s serenade when they were actually serenading the K. D.'s.

Early to bed, early to rise: Buddy Budro and Pete Moncure calling Joan Stout at five in the morning—just to talk!

John Wright Presents Military History Library

Colonel John W. Wright recently presented to the College Library his personal library as a memorial to his wife, who died last year. His collection reflects both the personal and professional interests of his life. Colonel Wright has been an army officer since June 9, 1898 when he volunteered for service in the Spanish-American War. From his forebears, he inherited a regard for, and an association with, military history.

At his various army posts, Colonel Wright devoted his leisure to the study of the art of war, and early in his military career began a systematic purchase of distinctive books on that specialized subject. Actually, the core of the Wright collection of over a thousand volumes are works on Napoleon and the Empire, although military biographies and studies on strategy and tactics of other wars are largely represented.

Theatre Production Of

"Too Many Husbands" Proves Adequate

By GENE BLACK

Last Thursday night the curtain rang down on the William and Mary Theatre season of 1945-46 with W. Somerset Maugham's "Too Many Husbands." It was not the poorest play of the year, but it was far from being the best.

First, let us examine the play itself. It certainly was not an exceptional selection, but it could have been given a more than satisfactory performance. Maugham takes an overused theme and then proceeds to overwork it a great deal too much. He strains far beyond the theme's capacity in an effort to gain lines. The first act, as written, commences very slowly but progresses to a rapid moving climax. The second act has a tendency to move at an erratic pace. It is uneven in construction and very badly drawn out. The third act is the best of all. Its one weakness is an extremely wearing anti-climax. The play should end directly after Victoria's final exit and Frederick's line: "Well, shall we go to lunch?" As it is, it is boring and spoils the effect of the scenes that came before.

Confused Diction

Enough said about the plot of the play. Let us turn to the acting which is this critic's main interest. It may be said that the acting was a display of good and bad individual performances. One comment should be made about the diction in general. As the play was an English play, the combination of English and American accents and the one individual who used everything from Irish to Shropshire dialects proved very irritating.

In regard to the individual acting, Marilyn Woodberry's performance as Victoria was very good. She held the action up during many scenes when it would have fallen terribly. She deserves a great deal of praise for her ability to hold her own in scenes which were dominated by other individuals. She added a spark to the performance the second night which was completely lacking on the first.

Laurels To Joe Buchanan

The special laurels, academy award, or what have you go to Joe Buchanan. His performance

Art Alliance Elects Thomas E. Thorne

The Art Alliance of Virginia elected Thomas E. Thorne, acting head of the William and Mary department of fine arts, a trustee of the association, at a meeting held on Saturday, April 13. Mr. Thorne will take the place vacated by the resignation of Dr. Viktor Lowenfeld.

The Art Alliance is a part of the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts in Richmond. Its members represent organizations throughout the state "from garden clubs to colleges. Its purpose is to sponsor art exhibits and improve art education in the community," stated Mr. Thorne.

was superb. He reached professional heights in his portrayal of Mr. Raham, the English solicitor. It was, without a shadow of a doubt, the finest single performance given on the William and Mary stage this season. He delivered his lines in a matchless fashion and with perfect ease. Perhaps the greatest factor in his performance were his pantomime and facial expressions. They were the peak of the evening's entertainment. For instance, his demonstration of precisely how to strangle Victoria was the most amusing part of the play. He reached a peak in high comedy which shone all the more after watching the rather shoddy and farcical humor of the bulk of the play. His characterization will remain imprinted upon the minds of the audience long after the play is forgotten. Too much praise cannot be given him by this critic.

Minor Parts Best

With the exception of Miss Woodberry's performance, the minor parts were the best in the play. I refer specifically to Jill Stauf's short scene as Mrs. Pogson, Macy Digg's performance as the manicurist, Mary McCarthy in her extremely brief scene as Nannie the Nurse, and Ginna Lewis with her lovely performance on the second night as Miss Montmerency. Dick Bethards also added a rather amusing touch in an otherwise dry anti-climax in the third act. These five brief appearances added a welcome relief to otherwise dull sections.

Gene Heck shows definite potentialities. He improved quite a bit on the second night.

Sumner Rand, an old actor now back on the William and Mary stage, was somewhat disappointing. He improved, however, to some degree in the second act.

Walter Weaver gave an adequate performance as William.

As for the acting in general, Miss Woodberry had to carry far too much of the burden of the scenes on the whole to make the bulk of the play much above par. Joe Buchanan was the outstanding performer. Small parts carried all the high comedy. The play as a unit cannot be regarded as anything better than adequate, in my opinion.
